ALLEY OOP

"Would You Care to Hear Me Reminisce, Son?"

been aware of were large red-hot spikes that were tossed to each other on the girders of a new building.

Did these have to be made red-hot, I wondered.

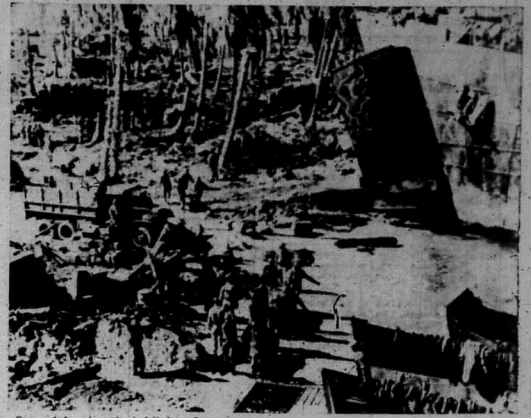

They don't. Aluminum rivets, more correctly, aluminum alloy rivets are driven cold. The metal may appear to be hard as iron, but it is in reality soft enough so that it can be flattened by an ordinary hammer. You drill a hole, you put a rivet in it, while your partner holds a packing-bar a hand-size piece of steel against the protruding shank of the rivet, you take your rivet-gun at Simpson's, your pneumatic vibrator, please! Into the muzzle of your gun you fit a "set," the end of which is shaped to cover the rivet head; you hold the set firm on the rivet, pull the trigger. Presto! the shank has squashed itself down to a flat "head" on your partner's side.

This, they explained to us at Simpson's was the procedure. Now we would try it, and the classroom echoed with an explosion of violent rat-a-tat-tat accompanied by an explosion of girlish shrieks and a third explosion of dropped backing-bars. A rivet-gun is an alarming little machine until you become accustomed to it.

At Simpson's we were taught an elaborate code of taps which, we were assured, was used by all riveting teams as their only way of communicating with each other. You'll find it in all the textbooks. At KERRY KRAFT, where we buckers want to say "None we don't tap, we say 'Move!' and when we want to let our gunners know that they have made the thing too flat we extrude a ourselves much more forcibly than by using taps.

And when we are ready when the rivet is in its hole, our hat off runners. "Hit it!" "Hit it!" All worked together and know each

That is riveting, the "glamor job" of air- craft. That is riveting, when you've quality as the "Go" which sets not a good rivet team, who've I saw something of the same. HIT THE RIVET, SISTER

"HIT IT!" Tool has gone (I never knew Kerry Kraft has been having its what Tool did. Small Parts has been lifted, its hair mangled and gone, and, alas, Detail Inspection

Goodbye, Girl! Goodbye, all those of you who bore with me when I was screwing and mending! I'll be places is a madhouse of unbridled par of workmen laying track, tearing it up and laying it again, of little knots of inspectors and blueprints, grabbing over enormous blueprints.

Kerry Kraft has got a new com-

Kerry Kraft is going to build, not just more paid for planes, but something else, but its own complete, invincible, totally assembled fighter. They've done them before, but only in a small way. Now it's "big-time" stuff, a complete line of stuff, real Production. It doesn't mean just one line, it means the plane itself, it means a line for each part, the engine, the tail, the rubber, the elevator. Then the final assembly all the parts, each completed on its own line, coming together—half a dozen planes being assembled all at once.

Not all of these lines are starting off from scratch. They're already been making the wings and stabilizers, the fins and control surfaces, and all that is really new is the fuselage and the fitting of these various pieces together to make a finished plane. It's, as planes go, a little thing, but it takes up a lot of room and, in order to arrange the component line, in some semblance of a pattern, everything is "copy-turvy." In the shop, they express it differently. My fellow workers, I find, have quite a gift for vivid phrase.

And my fellow-workers, dear, are no longer girls but "fellows," for I am at last out of Bench and on the Line. On the line which makes the stabilizers for the new plane, the "X-0."

At last I am a riveter.

At Simpson's, on the day when we first met rivets, I was, incredibly as it seems, not only entirely ignorant of what riveting meant, but hardly sure what a rivet itself was. I remember looking curiously at the round-headed, short and unpunctured nipple—five thirty-seconds of an inch in diameter, not quite half an inch long. The only rivet I had ever before
